Dear Sirs,

long ago announced event - launch of new product of PINTOR Magdalena Kubik company – Collector is right around the corner and will take place this year. Behind me eight years of work on innovative technology enabling performance of very complicated wooden construction of Collector product without usage of any elements supporting or replacing wooden joints like metal joints, glue, etc.. Behind me eight years of work on very complicated construction of Collector product which has a lot of functions among which is the function which performs the idea of the construction – the possibility of collecting of books in physical form being information carriers in human-human model serves to preserve original and valuable knowledge transferred through generations, from humans to humans, according to their personal needs and appreciation.

As I mentioned above Collector is multifunctional. In its original style it is also possible to collect worthless books, there is a place for telescope, socks, phone, it is possible to rest in it, drink tea and even read.

I encourage to learn about all of Collector's functions but also to personal reflections mentioning below few of mine, lightening the idea of Collector's construction and its performance by Collector's function - the possibility of collecting of books in physical form being information carriers in human-human model serves to preserve original and valuable knowledge transferred through generations, from humans to humans, according to their personal needs and appreciation.

We are experiencing presently High Tech transformation in the area of information technology concerning knowledge transfers by the application of the new function which is function of author which without a doubt will be extinct like reader – personal computer which has left box of useless disks behind in the whole World. It is worth considering the human function in environment in which changes are forced by High Tech transformation creating highly processed knowledge as it can be a process of functional illiteracy human will be subjected to looking into this process against payment.

Sometimes to convert itself into wise, ignorance needs ignorance and not only high processed knowledge can cause functional illiteracy but also original knowledge in digital form which can displace knowledge written in books. Amount of humans persecuted due to the knowledge possessed exceed the amount of humans esteemed due to knowledge possessed. Knowledge in digital form especially original and valuable knowledge can become the subject of economical war and even armed conflicts, be destroyed, overtaken with restricted or no access what will start process of knowledge transfers vanishing caused by decreasing knowledge resources.

Collecting of the useful knowledge written in the physical form of books is beneficial to humanity, supports peace, health by eliminating negative effects of usage of digital readers, develops imagination and what most important - the human wisdom which to grow anew needs much more time than the highest tree. Sometimes to not be stupid it is enough to possess one wise book and Collector product is designed for this kind of Clients as well.

The main advantage of the Collector product is this that Collector product enabling collecting of books which do not need battery to be read even if it is this one and only, for instance cookery.

From the bottom of my heart I wish my company's Clients right choices.
